SHOT TO FRIGHTEN.

This is What Mrs. Philander Poole Claimed She Did.

But the Police Hearst She Shot to Kill—Fired a Shot Gun.

There was considerable excitement
near Ninth and Clark streets yesterday morning. Mrs. Philander Poole, who came to the city from the country
with her husband about a month ago, fired a load of shot at a boy named Whitely. She says she shot to frighten him, but he says she shot grazed his head, and that she had threatened to shoot him if he played on the shed, the top of which he occupied when she fired the gun.

She is an estimable old lady, and evidently thought there was little difference in shooting in a city and in the country. Her husband was at the city hall today to "have it squashed," as he called it. The boys had been greatly annoying her, according to reports, and she had threatened to shoot them simply to frighten them, and finally did shoot.
Likely no warrant will be issued.

POLICE COURT.

A Number of Cases Were Left Open This Morning.

There Will Probably Be a Warrant for False Swearing.

In the case against Milt Carter,
the colored preacher charged with attempted rape, was resumed this morning. Alexander Thomas, colored, swore falsely, evidently, and will be warranted for perjury. The case was again left open.

Joseph Cuth, a tramp, was charged with vagrancy, and was dismissed on condition he leave the city at once,
and promised to do so.

A case against Anderson Farmer,
for a breach of the peace, was left open.

The case against Will Briggs,
charged with cutting Hud Henderson, was again continued on account of Henderson's inability to attend court.

Lizzie Green, Ella Hayes and Mrs. McClelland, colored, were this morning tried in the police court for breaches of the peace. They were fined respectively $3 and $5 and costs.

Thomas McFarlane was fined $1
and costs for being drunk.

The breach of the peace case against Jesse Ellis, colored, was continued until tomorrow on account of the absence of witnesses.

A PRETTY SOLO.

Miss Gertrude Asher Charnas a Large Congregation.

Miss Gertrude Asher, of Memphis,
who is guest of Mrs. H. E. Thompson, sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning, and was highly complimented by all who heard her. She has a sweet voice, and is a natural singer, never having taken a lesson.

The music was written by Prof.
Harry Gilbert, and is another credit to this rising young musician, who is destined to win fame in his profession, judging from his past works.

A GOOD MEETING.

Revival in Progress at Palestine
Church.

Rev. Humphreys, of Palestine
church, is holding a successful revival, and yesterday there were eight or ten conversions. He is being assisted by Rev. John Budd, of Marshall county, and the meeting is drawing no little attention.

CUBANS ARE STARVING.

General Gomez Makes a Plan to President McKinley for Aid
For His Hungry Soldiers.

Fears That the Insurgent Soldiers Will Attack the Towns
for Food if Not Soon Relieved.

Washington, Sept. 26.—General
Gomez has made a report to President McKinley that the greatest distress prevails in Cuba, and that the Cuban army under him is starving.
Hundreds of people, the report says,
are dying in Santa Clara province.
The old general asks the aid of the United States government to keep the people from starving and to preserve order for he fears that the insurgents will attack the towns for food if not soon relieved.

THE INVESTIGATORS

Hold Their First Meeting On Saturday and Organize.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Eight members of President McKinley's committee for investigating the war department were ready for the meeting at the white house Saturday, and received the president's explanation of the work required of them. The members present were: Maj. Gen.
Granville M. Dodge, of Iowa; Col.
J. A. Sexton, of Illinois; Capt. E.
P. Howell, of Georgia; Maj. Gen. J.
M. Wilson, chief of engineers U. S.
A.; Hon. Chas. Doolittle, of Indiana;
former Gov. Urban A. Woodbury, of Vermont; former Gov. James A.
Beaver, of Pennsylvania; Maj. Gen.
H. M. Cook, of the army (retired). The ninth member of the committee, who was not present, is Dr. Phineas S. Conner, of Cincinnati. Gen. Dodge was elected chairman of the committee.

NEW TRIAL FOR DREYFUS.

The French Cabinet Today Decides in Favor of a Revision of the Famous Case.

The Decision Was Received With Cheers by the Paris Mob—
Will Tend to Allay Popular Excitement.

Paris, Sept. 26.—The cabinet today granted a revision of the Dreyfus case and the famous prisoner on Devil's Island will now have a new trial.

The decision in favor of revision was received by the Paris mob with cheers and has greatly allayed the popular excitement.

GARCIA IS SATISFIED.

He Declares That Cuba's Only Hope Is to American Protection.

Santiago, Sept. 26.—In an interview Gen. Garcia confirms the impression that his good will may be counted on by the United States.

He declares the provisional Cuban government is my thial—a name only,
the republic of Cuba being as yet only represented by the army in the field. He says the only government in Cuba is that of the United States, which he fully recognizes, and that it is the duty of the Cuban soldiers to lay down their arms and go to work "under the protecting arm" of the United States to build up Cuba.

Gen. Garcia was overwhelmed with courtesies by the American officers Friday and if any wound remained to his self-esteem from Gen. Shafter's unceremonious handling it must have been entirely healed. In a speech to the Cubans he urged them to show gratitude to the United States for its intervention and for its present attitude.

REGISTRATION DAY.

The Time to Register Will Soon
be Here.

The first Tuesday in October is the regular registration day in the cities of the state, provided by law. If extra registration days are deemed necessary they must be provided by order of the board of council of the city desiring them.

In Paducah there are two extra registration days, as provided by ordinance.

saulted Miss Molly Shelton of this

DEATH AT BENTON.

Mr. J. W. Stevens, ex-county judge of Marshall, died last night at his home near Benton of general debility, aged 82. He leaves a son and two daughters. He was one of the best known and most highly respected men in the county, and had held several offices, among which was county judge.

MUSTERED OUT.

Relatives of Messrs. Zach Bryant and Joe Sinnott, who have been ordered by Gen. Wilson at Porto Rico, received a telegram today that they have been mustered out and will be home this week. They are now in New York.

COMBINATION IS BROKEN.

Newspaper Men and Politicians Had Formed One for
Mr. Charles W.
Metcalfe.

He Was to Make Mr. Harry G.
Tandy, of This City, Assistant Secretary of State
if Elected.

The withdrawal of Mr. Charles W.
Metcalfe, of Pineville, from the race for the democratic nomination for secretary of state, has broken up a pretty little combination among well known democratic newspaper men
and politicians in the First district.
Last winter at Frankfort the combination was effected and most all the young democratic editors and politicians in the district were in it. They were to support Mr. Metcalfe who in return was to make Mr. Harry G.
Tandy, of this city, a well known and popular democrat, assistant secretary of state in case he was elected.

Mr. Metcalfe has withdrawn from the race, but Mr. Tandy's friends are still hopeful of seeing him land in the place and will do everything possible to assist him.

PHONE WAR AT HENDERSON.

Henderson, Sept. 26.—The Cumberland Telephone company has been doing business here for many years without a franchise. A new company was organized and franchises sold Saturday. The Cumberland bought the first one at public auction at $75,
thinking the plans of the new company would be defeated. Immediately the mayor offered another for sale, which was bought for $65 by the opposition, or Henderson Telephone company. A suit is threatened.

BOYS ARRESTED.

They Are Wanted at West Point, Ky., for Robbery.

One of Them Is a Paducah Boy
Who Ran Away Last Week.

Adolph Holland, Ned Dawson, Harry Wells and George Dennis were arrested by Officer McLaughlin and Deputy Lockup Keeper Burton at the city hall last night on a telegram from West Point, Ky., wanted there for robbery. They answer the description of the boys wanted.

One of them, Dennis, left the city last week for Louisville. He is only 12 or 14 years old, but is incorrigi-ble in his meanness.

Dawson and Wells are tramps,
while the other boy lives at West Point.

They stole a watch, pistol and some money, but Myrtil Collins does not know which one of them it was.

All are young, ranging from 14 to 18, and were locked up to await advice from West Point.

The telegram asking that they be arrested was received Saturday night.

TOMORROW MORNING.

Seats for the great Harlow minstrel which appears at Morton's opera house next Wednesday night will be placed on sale at Van Cull's book store. This is one of the best minstrel organizations now on the road and the fact that Harry Ward is at the head of same is a guarantee that it is all right.

Druggists will say they sell more

CITY ENGINEER MAY BE OUSTED.

The Assistant Engineer Prefers
Charges of Incompetency
Against Him to Mayor
Lang—The Charges.

The Committee to Investigate Mr.
Lyon Will Meet Tonight—
There Will Be a Hot Time
Over the Affair Yet.

City Engineer J. T. Postlethwaite is to be tried on a charge of incompetency.

This will be the sequel to his trouble with his assistant, Mr. W. W.
Lyon, whom he has a time or two tried to have ousted by the council.
Mr. Postlethwaite, at the last regular meeting of the council, complained in a written communication to that body, that he was not receiving from Mr. Lyon the assistance he ought to get. He said Mr. Lyon did not go about him, and was off duty several days.

The matter was referred to a committee, and is in statu quo, but will be investigated tonight by the committee to whom it was referred, of which Mr. Elliott is chairman. Mr.
Elliott investigated the charges the following day after Mr. Postlethwaite made them, and reported to the mayor that Mr. Lyon was not off but three days. Furthermore, that the work was not delayed by his being off, and that the sewerage committee had instructed him to attend to sewerage
work and to nothing else, hence it was not to be expected of him that he assist the city engineer in his regular duties.

Mr. Lyon, throughout all his trouble with Mr. Postlethwaite, has conducted himself as a gentleman, and had nothing to say. He has foreborne to prefer any charges against him, electing rather to get along peacefully.
Being unable to do this, he remained away from Mr. Postlethwaite as much as possible, and was commended for it publicly by Mr. Elliott, of the sewerage committee, who stated to the council that he himself found the city engineer so disagreeable that he never went into his office except when he had to. The whole thing has culminated just as it was sometime ago, predicted it would if the city engineer, in his perversity, kept up his war on his assistant. The latter has preferred charges of incompetency, and it is said, is amply able to substantiate them.

The people have long wondered why the council has so long connived at the shortcomings of the city engineer, when he was proving a detraction to the city, and the prospects are that the whole matter will now be sifted by the council.

The following are the charges, prepared by Mr. Lyon's letter to Mayor Lang, preferred against Mr.
Postlethwaite to the mayor this forenoon, and furnished by Mr. Lyon upon request of the city
clerk, J. M. Lang.

Mayor.

Please find herewith charges which I have preferred against J. T. Postlethwaite, City Engineer.

I regret that this step on my part is necessary but in order to protect myself and my reputation, I am forced to show to you, the City Council and the people in general, the true condition of affairs in the Engineer
Dept., and the cause of the same.

Yours respectfully,
Wm. W. Lyon,
Asst. Engr.

Sept. 26 '98.
Charge and specifications preferred against J. T. Postlethwaite, city engineer.

Charge: Incompetency in office.
Specifications: In that he, J. T.
Postlethwaite, having been regularly
elected to the office of city engineer,
and by virtue of his office, been required to do and perform certain engineering work, has failed and neglected, or has been incompetent to properly perform said work.

Charge 1.—Pavement on Mountain avenue between Broadway and Jefferson streets.

2.—Storm water sewer on Adams
at Eighth street.

3.—Sub-grades on Adams between Eighth and Ninth streets.

4.—North Eighth street between Barnett's and corporation limits.

5.—Sub-grades on Twenty-first street between Broadway and Jefferson streets.

6.—Grades for sewers on Broadway between Third and Fourth streets.

7.—Grades for sewers on Third street between Broadway and Court
streets.

8.—Grades for sewers on Fifth street between Jefferson to near Harrison street.

9.—Grades for sewers on Broadway from Fifth to Seventh streets.

10.—In measuring gravel for city
furnished by Voight Bros.

11.—In measuring barge 15 of gravel for city, furnished by Voight Bros. First measurement about two hundred and thirty odd yards. Third measurement of the same barge about one hundred and forty-six yards, according to the notes in the mayor's office.

12.—Contract for cellar bottom in city hall. Contract calling for top dressing one inch of Louisville cement—should have been one inch of best Portland cement.

13.—Making false statements to his honorable Mayor Lang, and to the common council, relative to official business.

Specification 1.—In that he, J. T.
Postlethwaite, did knowingly, willfully
and falsely state to the mayor, J. M.
Lang, that the profile from Third to Fifth street was not in his office, and that he had not seen the same, and that he knew nothing about said profiles, when the facts are that he, at that time, had said profiles in his office, and that he had examined and commented on same.

14.—In that he, J. T. Postlethwaite, did state to the city council (then in session) that he had never seen said profiles and did not know of its existence, when the facts were that he had the same in his possession, had seen, examined and commented on the same.

Specification.—On or about Sept. 20, 1898, locating 4-in. pipe on Madison street, from Third going west—locating stake in center of ditch, and locating the line over gas pipe ditch.
I changed the same by order of the mayor.

Mayor Lang, it is likely, will report to the council that the charges are being preferred against the city engineer, and it will then devolve
upon the council to investigate them.
It will probably be several days, if not longer, before the matter comes up in council.

The city engineer Friday in stating that Engineer Postlethwaite located the sewer ditches over gas mains on Ninth street. It was on Madison street. It was all true except as to location, it is claimed.

FRANCE IS INTERFERING.

The Filipinos Say That France
Has Agreed to Recognize the Filipino Republic.

Such a Course on the Part of France Would Cause Serious Trouble With the United States.

Hong Kong, Sept. 26.—The Filipinos here say that France has agreed to recognize the Filipino Republic and that negotiations are now proceeding with that end in view.
France now has three warships at Manila, and if this report is true
most serious trouble is probable.

"REMEMBER THE MAIN."

A novel war play by Lincoln J.
Carter will be produced on a very elaborate and imposing scale at the opera house next Friday evening.
The scenery and mechanical effects used in the production of this beautiful play are said to be the best of stage realism, and the management calls attention to the fact that the pictures of the scenes as well as of the company are not in the least exaggerated, but are made from photographs taken by flashlights from the actual representations given upon the stage. The cast is said to be exceptionally strong. The piece is a triumph for both company and management and will no doubt meet with due appreciation from theater goers.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Horse Runs Away With Mr. Wm.
Armstrong.

Mr. William Armstrong, a well known horse dealer of Louisville, had a close call this morning, while en route to the city. His horse took fright at something out on Broadway
and ran away with him.

Mr. Armstrong was afraid to jump, and could not control the animal, as the lines were broken. He accordingly climbed to the rear of the buggy and got out that way, painfully skimming himself in making his escape.

The animal was captured at the edge of town, after it was about run down.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The demand of the United States
as to the evacuation of Cuba is that it shall begin not later than Oct. 15, and be completed by Dec. 31. It is probable that the United States will take steps to prevent the removal of the Columbus monument and remains.
If any action is to be taken it must be prompt, as the Spaniards will begin the work of removal today.

The cruisers Boston and Raleigh and the gunboat Calumet have been sent from Manila to take possession of Iloilo. The Americans at Manila have arrested seven insurgents who were impressing men into Aguinaldo's army. The general situation at Manila is unchanged, as all sides
await the action of the Paris peace conference. Health conditions grow

The president's investigation committee is ready for business, and will soon begin the task of discovering where the blame is due for the bad management of the army camps and for other alleged evidence of incompetency in the conduct of the war by the war department. This investigation will be most thorough, and will not spare even Secretary Alger, should the evidence show that he is blameable.

The people of Paducah will be glad to know that the Y. M. C. A. in this city is not to be allowed to dissolve, as was rumored some weeks ago. There is no branch of religious work that has done more good than the Y. M. C. A. organization. It fills a field all by itself and has many most attractive features. It has in other places done a vast amount of good, and there is no reason why it should not be a most important factor in this city.

The hottest tip fund committee, appointed last week, begins its work of canvassing for subscriptions this week. It should meet with a most liberal response. Kentucky has been greatly honored by having this marvelous modern naval architecture after her. The "Kentucky" will be one of the most formidable arguments for peace about and will be an exponent of the power of the "republic of the west" that will be greatly respected by the nations of the old world. She has already the blessing of the old Bluegrass State; let her have a substantial testimonial of our admiration and appreciation as well.

As far as we can learn, the republican factions in Kentucky are not harmonizing to any great extent. Indeed, the white-winged bird of peace has left for parts unknown without leaving its telephone number or even its postal address. Further more, the factional quarrels all seem to be based on a desire for federal patronage—the "ins" versus the "outs." It is just such states of affairs that exist in various portions of Kentucky today in the republican party that encourage the belief that every federal office should be under the most rigid civil service rules. The republicans of Kentucky must lay aside factional quarrels, restore harmony, or we won't poll votes enough to allow the Gobel election law to "work" even in the most inconsequential manner.

The Michigan conference of the Methodist Episcopal church met in Lansing last week, and after a long and stormy debate adopted resolutions severely censuring clergymen who have voted for any candidate for public office except those of the prohibitionist political party, and instructing them implicitly to vote the prohibitionist ticket in future. This action of the Michigan Methodists looks very strange when we note the position assumed by that church, in Michigan and elsewhere, in regard to anything that looks like a union of church and state. The absolute divorce of church and state is one of the fundamental principles of this republic, and yet the union of church and state is not far in the distance when the church enters politics. The action of the Methodists of Michigan will have no other result than to show their own inconsistency.

"FACTS ABOUT THE SOUTH."
Gen. Stephen D. Lee, the distinguished Confederate general, in a letter to Mr. Richard H. Edmunds, of Baltimore, editor of the Manufacturer's Record says:
"I regard your pamphlet 'Facts About the South' as the most condensed presentation of the condition of the south industrially before and since the war I have ever seen."
Your facile presentation of statistics (as to the progress of the south before the war) is almost incredible in this direction, and brings out the fact that the resources of the south in agriculture, in her iron and coal fields, in her development of manufactures, in her lumber production and in every other line show the possibility of wealth development which puts the south far ahead of almost any other equal section in the world. The wealth producing elements are almost in juxtaposition and are found in inexhaustible quantities. It also brings out the fact that, while the south has been represented as having an inert, non-productive population, they are, on the contrary, full of energy, valor and intelligence.

"I repeat, I consider your pamphlet the most important issued since the war in demonstrating by indisputable facts the condition of the south before, during and since the war, and removing false and untrue impressions as to the south and her people, showing also her marvelous recuperation from ruin and her present wonderful prosperity."
"Your new edition of that pamphlet should be put in the hands of all leading business men, bankers and others in the south, the north and generally distributed in every direction. It should be scattered broadcast. It was a revelation to me, and I have used its contents more freely in the interest of the south than any publication in my reach." This pamphlet should be read by every man, woman and child who wants to know about the south, what it accomplished before the war and what it is doing today. It is being sent 20 cents to the south, to Richard H. Edmunds, Baltimore, Maryland.

NEW QUARTERS.

Mr. Pat Lally Moves Into His New Building, Corner Tenth and Trimble Streets.

Will Greatly Enlarge His Stock of Goods—His Building One of the Finest in the City.

Mr. Pat Lally has moved into his new quarters at Tenth and Trimble streets, and he now has in every respect one of the finest places of business in the city. His new building is large, commodious and well arranged. It has just been completed, and was built with special reference to his growing business.

Mr. Lally's new quarters will enable him to carry a larger stock of goods, and, in fact, his whole stock will be new, as his old stock will be closed out as soon as possible. With a new building, new fixtures and a new and greatly enlarged stock of goods in both staple and fancy lines, Mr. Lally will be as well prepared to meet the wants of his trade as any house in the city.

During the six years that Mr. Lally has been in business at the corner of Ninth and Trimble streets, he has built up a most enviable trade, and he has done it by a strict attention to the wants of his customers, and by carrying only first class goods. His new facilities will enable him, if such be possible, to give better attention to his trade than ever before.

A special feature of Mr. Lally's business now is his meat market. Mr. W. C. Overstreet will be his butcher. He will carry a complete line of fresh and salt meats. The meat business will have his personal attention, and only first class meats will be handled.

Remember that you can find anything you want in groceries, fresh and salt meats, flour and feed at Lally's, corner Tenth and Trimble streets. Telephone 118.

Mr. Lally's new building is built of brick, two stories, and 120 feet deep. It is not only one of the most substantial buildings in the city, but one of the handsomest. HOW TO HAVE A CLEAR SKIN FREE FROM PIMPLES.

To be beautiful and have a fair skin, you must have pure blood and good health. To do so, purify the blood and build up the health with the best Tonic and Blood Purifier of the age, Botanic Blood Balm ("B. B. B."). It is the old standard and reliable remedy. It never fails to cure all manner of Blood and Skin diseases, including pimples which are caused by poison in the blood.

POSITIVE PROOF.

A lady friend of mine has for several years been troubled with bumps and pimples on her face and neck, for which she used various cosmetics in order to remove them and beautify and improve the complexion; but these local applications were only temporary, and left her skin in worse condition. I recommended an internal preparation—known as Botanic Blood Balm ("B. B. B."), which I have been using and selling; she used three bottles and all pimples have disappeared; her skin is soft and smooth and her general health much improved. She expresses herself much gratified, and can recommend it to all who are thus affected.

THE SCHOOLS.

The Average Attendance Was Increased the Past Week.

The Total Enrollment is About Two Thousand Four Hundred.

The records in Supt. McBroome's office show that the total enrollment of pupils in the Paducah Public Schools is about 2125.

The average attendance last week was 2207, which 255 better than the corresponding week last year. This is a great increase, but there was a slow in town the same week last year, and this reduced the attendance 75 or more.

The crowded condition of some of the rooms is gradually being relieved, and the schools are getting along nicely.

WANT TO GO HOME.

What the Third Kentucky Boys Sang to Gov. Bradley.

When Gov. Bradley visited the Third Kentucky Boys Friday afternoon after the review he was the guest for a short time at Col. Smith's tent, says the Lexington Leader. While the governor's party was sitting in front of the tent in the carriages the privates of the regiment gathered around many of them and began singing "Send Us Home, Governor, We Want to Go Home." The governor inquired of the crowd if they really wanted to be mustered out, and their assent was with one accord. However, it is not believed the Third will be ordered out for some time to come, although the boys may begin more laxity in the matter of furloughs.

SPANISH GOLD IN THE SEA.

Has Done Much to Improve the Art of Diving.

As a matter of fact, Spanish gold, strewn on the floor of the sea, has done much to improve the art of the diver, says Good Words. Before the armada year was out we began to search for the treasure the wrecked ships were supposed to contain, and these efforts were renewed from time to time down to the present century. One of the first to try his luck was the marquis of Argyll. He sent to Glasgow for a diver, and several descents were made to the ships sunk off the Island of Mull. The diver's want of success was no doubt due to the rudeness of his apparatus. It is said that air was supplied to him by means of a leather pipe, but it is not likely that he was able to remain under water more than two or three minutes at a time. Some 80 years later another attempt was made at the same ships, this time with a rough kind of diving bell. After a great deal of trouble three guns were brought up, and then the operations were finally abandoned. It may help to thrill some of the tourists who visit these northern seas to know that under their sliding keels lie Spanish ships and unknown quantities of Spanish gold.

A Whitehead diver named Gann is said to have had a pretty piece of luck, late in the present century, with one of the ships of the armada. Business took him to Galway, and one night, over a pipe with the fishermen, he heard the local tradition that a Spanish ship lay off the coast. Gann made terms with the man who said he knew the whereabouts of the wreck, and after several weeks of patient searching with grapnels they came upon traces of a ship. Gann went down in his diving dress, and found a large quantity of Spanish dollars; they had been packed originally in barrels, but the wood had rotted away, leaving the gold stacked in the shape of barrels. The diver, with his money, built a row of houses in his native place; and if anybody doubts the truth of the story, let him go to Whitehead and ask for Dollar Row.

ANIMAL BRAIN POWER.

Size of the Brain Has Little to Do with Its Mental Powers.

In individuals of the same species extremes of size do bear some relation to mental power, usually as coincident with deficiency. Very large dogs, such as the Great Dane, the St. Bernard (of the show bench) and the mastiff, are seldom as intelligent as those of medium size even when constantly in their owners' company. It is possible that the "Landseer" Newfoundland is as intelligent as it is courageous in aquatic feats, but recorded instances are wanting. So also "dwarfed" dogs, the little creatures bred to be carried in muffs or as fancy pets, are often stunted in mind as well as in body. But this does not apply to some of the naturally small breeds; the Blemheim spaniels being, as might be expected from their cranial development and expression, among the most intelligent of dogs—far brighter, for instance, than the heavy lumbering spaniels, which weigh 70 pounds.

A little Jersey or Kerry cow has often twice the wits of a large Short-horn or Hereford. But this is doubtless because both the Jerseys and Kerris have been in more intimate relations with men, and have been kept as pets and family friends for very many generations—for how many anyone may judge who buys the annual reports and pedigree lists contained in "The Jersey Herd Book." In the same way, ponies are commonly said to be "cleverer" than horses. This is mainly because, owing to their smaller size, they are in daily use in petty domestic work, and are in constant contact with human beings.—London Spectator.

A PARIS FAGIN.

Taught His Boys the Art of Thieving—How He Was Caught.

Fagin and the Artful Dodger have had a worthy successor here under lock and key. This man, together with ten of his pupils, kept a school, where young hopefuls graduated in the science of thieving. The course of tuition appears to have been as complete and efficient as any that young Oliver Twist's master imparted to his unwilling pupil. Only he was more fortunate in his professional capacity than that celebrated old rogue. His pupils displayed more of a naïveté towards the profession for which he prepared them than did Oliver. They took kindly to their lessons, and were eager to learn. In fact, they did their master credit. While the younger pupils attended the class which was held in a boat on the Seine, under the shadow of a bridge, to avoid being disturbed during the hours of study, the most advanced among the scholars, who had already attained to something like practical efficiency in one or other branches of the curriculum, used, under the leadership of an assistant master, to follow a course of object lessons in the neighborhood of the public expense. Unfortunately, this flourishing institution has come to grief, owing to both head master and assistant being now prevented by circumstances beyond their control from carrying it on, as formerly, under their personal supervision.

The blame for this untoward collapse of a successful undertaking shrewdly rests, however, with the pupils themselves, who, in their eagerness to acquire information, forgot to lower their voices while putting questions to their master after the lecture was over. A policeman happened to be standing on the bridge at the time and heard an animated conversation going on in a boat below. Quaint terms caught his ear, in which his experience of thieves' slang led him to recognize expressions denoting varied and numerous methods, all equally ingenious, for appropriating other people's property. In the course of the discussion, questions of minute details were entered into by the scholars, and the voice of a man older than the rest was heard to impart many valuable practical hints on the subject under consideration. At length the policeman went down to inquire more fully into the proceedings, with the result that the professor and his assistant, with a number of their most promising pupils, have now been declared forbidden to present their favorite studies.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

ANTS AND THE PLAGUE.

Instance at Bombay Where the Insects Were Affected.

During the epidemic at Hong Kong rats contributed much to the propagation of the disease. The pest at Bombay has shown that pigeons, flies and ants were often the victims of the infectious microbe. In the cities where he worked, a foreign correspondent had remarked the existence of a nest of very small ants.

At the height of the plague he observed in the ant hill an unaccountable movement; the insects, once emptied in breaking up houses, transported home and provisions three yards distant.

Pursuing the examination with closer attention he found that several hundreds of the ants were dead or dying, that the others dragged the dead to some distance from their new dwelling and threw aside a considerable number of grains of rice as if they had recognized that they would be injurious for the feeding of the community.

Two days later, the mortality still increasing, the ants broke up home again, and our correspondent remarked that the insects employed in the transport of bodies and damaged food furnished more victims than the others. The series of observations was unfortunately interrupted by the invasion of a troop of monkeys, which overturned the ant hills and their cemeteries.

A bacteriologist of Bombay secured some of the surviving ants and he claimed to have found upon them bacilli of the plague, author of all the evil.—Golden Days.

Rather a Squatcher.

Stranger—"That's a fine child, madam."

Amazed Mother—"Well, what of it? Stranger (apologetically)—Oh, nothing at all, nothing at all."

Amazed Mother (cheerily)—But it is something at all. I don't know you from Adam, and you don't know me from Eve. What do you mean by telling me this is a fine child?

Stranger (rising)—Nothing—except to add that such a fine child must have had a saint for a father—a perfect saint. Good morning.—Jacksonville (Fla.) Times-Union.

An Accurate Calculation.

She—How many people were there on the beach yesterday?

He—One for every two feet.—N. Y. Journal.

"LET US HAVE PEACE"

"Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."
"To the victors belong the spoils."

To our customers belong the profits this week. We have met the enemy and we've got 'em.

WE HAVE SILENCED THE FORCES of high prices with the bargains we sold in the trade. Our figures at all times the LOWEST, now knock all the rest in the shade. From our dress goods may yet be selected some choice things in hot weather stuff, on which we won't quote any prices, though others do that for a bluff. These goods you can have as you wish them; yourself make the prices to suit. And when you have spent a few dollars you get a fine picture to boot. We are selling the handiwork of DRESS MAKERS ever sold in this end of the state; for less than the goods can be bought at, all home made and right up to date. Our LADIES WEAR pleases the fairest, and looks lovely on creatures less fair; Our styles, which are ever the latest, "are charming," fair women declare, and the men folks never forget us, when wearing NICE SHIRTS and FINE SHOES. They know we keep the assortment from which they can easily choose.

Our SHOES are the best and cheapest on top of the earth—or below—and every last pair is as "solid" as the rocks in the Forts of Mott. You may fancy this quite out of reason, but a trial will prove it is true. Just to wind up for the season, FORTY CENTS buys a LOW-QUARTER SHOE.

IN WAITERS and BITTENS and LACES we can fit every foot to a "T." "Cousin George, how dandy your feet look!" "Wear Dorian's shoes—don't you see?"

Rich people are pleased with the beauty of our LINES, LACE CURTAINS and RUGS, and other folks think it a duty to follow the taste of "big bugs."

Our trade is increasing and healthy—our prices creating a mussy; we hold fast the trade of the wealthy, and the poor we have always with us.

Our PICTURES—the gems of the moment—in every "sweet home" ought to be, when just for a few dollars' purchase, you're well come to some of them free.

All will admit the above contains "more truth than poetry."

Everybody come to this winding-up sale of the season.

WRITTEN AT RANDOM.

One of the worst nuisances on earth, according to an old hotel man, is the check book—the man who always writes a check when he owes a man, no matter for what amount. If he comes in and stays over all night he will, just before leaving, with a lorry air, take out his check book and write a check for $1.00 or $1.25, and think the hotel man is doing him a favor to take it. Since the war revenue stamps have become a necessary evil, the check book is more a nuisance than ever. He always has his check book, but seldom carries revenue stamps with him, hence the hotel man has to furnish him with one.

There is one well known man who resides in another city and often comes to Paducah. When he does he usually stops at a hotel, and never fails to give a check. He often writes them for one dollar, and no sarcastic remark the thoroughly disgusted clerk can make phases him. He continues to come—and write his one dollar checks.

The recent grand jury was in session as long as court itself was. Being on the grand jury has become a "soft snap." When a man gets on it he is feared and respected, even tho' it may be for only one week. He has nothing to do but unseat the evil of the community, smoke his pipe and draw his per diem, which in many instances is more than he would draw in his regular business. One man who has been on the grand jury for several years, was left out this time, and became very angry at the sheriff for not putting him on.

The recent grand jury, however, did good work, and was commended by Judge Husbands for it. Thirty or forty indictments were returned, and doubly that number investigated. There was an era of dullness among the sports during the sitting, but now most of them have returned to town, and resumed the even tenor of their way. There'll not be another grand jury until December.

And speaking of the grand jury, it is going the rounds that some of the indictments found by it will not stick. It is claimed that one or two members are not housekeepers, as required by law. In fact, at least one of them is boarding. Some of the indictments have already stuck and the accused convicted, but no collection was made on the above grounds. In other cases, it is said, a fight will be made when they come to trial. Two or three years ago a case was thrown out of court on account of one of the members not being a housekeeper.

Mayer Laug has a comical clerk in his drug store. He used to part his hair in the middle, but now wears the "crease" on the side. The change was thus brought about. One day not long ago a darky entered the establishment to make a purchase. The young man was standing behind the counter, with only his head visible above the show case. The darky walked back, looked intently at the clerk with his slick, plastered hair, parted in the center, and started out.

The mayor chanced to be in, and intercepted him before he reached the door, to wait on him.

The darky said he didn't believe he wanted anything, but at this juncture the clerk with the bifurcated hind end emerged from behind the show case and became entirely visible. The darky grinned.

"I wants some medicine for bowel trouble," he said, as his grin broadened. "I seen old young man dar, and fought he wuz a gal—he hah his hair parted so funny. I dunno lak to us a lady fer bowel medicine, yuh know."

The delicacy of feeling exhibited by the customer had no apparent effect on the young man, however, the never parted his hair in the middle again.

The same youth was in the rear of the establishment the other day, lussing himself with his early morning duties, when the mayor heard an awful crash from behind the prescription case, followed by a doleful and prolonged, "Oh, Lordy!" He thought the boy was killed and rushed back to render all necessary assistance to the corpse. He found him bending hysterically over a $5 bottle of chloroform, which had been utterly demolished. The boy was not overcome by the fumes of the drug, but by fear of having forever

PAID FOR NOT LAUGHING.

How an Intelligent Stranger inherited a Fortune.

"Fifteen years ago," said the intelligent stranger, "I landed on these shores from England a friendless and inexperienced youth, and my entire wealth was one pound sterling," says the New York Commercial-Advertiser. "More by accident than anything else, reaching the state of Missouri, I stopped one afternoon in the course of my quest for work, at a huge, fantastic, weather-stained old frame house, where, in response to quite a pressing invitation, I readily agreed to stay over night. I learned later that the proprietors of the house and farm were two very rich sisters, who, with the grown family of one of the ladies—the other being a spinster—both resided on the premises.

"Snapper over, we drew our chairs round the stove to indulge in country fashion—in a general confab. The company consisted of the two sisters, with the five sons, all young men full of animal spirits and devilry, and the two big daughters of the married lady, besides the of the hired help and myself. By and by, having accidentally mentioned that I had recently lived in London, I became a hero in a small way at once, and I had to reply to all sorts of questions suggested by the supposed drollery of the English capital as a place of abode. But to my little surprise and chagrin, as I was in the act of uttering these words: 'There's not a day in the 365 without one or more cases of murder and suicide occurring in London,' there suddenly burst forth a roar of laughter, again and again renewed, and continued to my very male throat but my own, as is only one in a dog's age heard outside hellum. However, by a side look I immediately perceived that the maiden sister, who sat in the rear, and not myself, was the unintentional cause of the merriment. She wore a wig, as it proved, which, while dozing with her head on the table, she managed somehow to shake or pull off, exhibiting a poll as destitute of human adornment as a pecked onion.

"The spectacle was as comical as one as I had ever witnessed, but by an almost superhuman effort I restrained my risibility, being helped thereby by my heartfelt sympathy for the poor creature. The rough young grangers, however, didn't know what sympathy was. They wanted to make the most of the occasion. One of them having deftly snatched the wig it was for several minutes landed like a ball from hand to hand and lost 'high up into the rafters. Just as the cruel pastime was beginning to the from sheer physical weariness the abused headpiece landed in my lap, upon which, with a side movement of my arm, I deposited it on the table within reach of the owner, but betrayed no sign whatever that I had the remotest idea where it belonged. Not only that, but, after waiting to treat the wig episode altogether as simply an inconceivable coincidence, I went to the absurdly extravagant length of pretending to imagine, in order to keep up the fiction, that the whole phenomenal hilarity was an expression of ridicule and disbelief of my recitals as to the surprising wickedness of the British metropolis. 'Why, boys,' I went on, 'you think I'm romancing touching the great city's murders and other crimes, but you forget that London has a population of nearly 4,000,000 souls. Shouts of 'all right, boss,' we understand! 'go ahead,' greeted me, but, apparently, quite misled, I paid no attention, but proceeded with my rebuke. 'You forget that there are more Jews there than in Jerusalem, more Romans than in Rome, more Scotch than in Edinburgh. Just think of that.'

"Next morning I accepted a proposition to engage for six months to do chores about the place. Long before the six months expired I had something very much more substantial than inference in support of my belief that my conduct had been noted and appreciated. In 12 weeks to a day from my entering the house, the unmarried sister suddenly died, and, after an illness of six days, died. When her will was probated, it was found, to my utterable astonishment and delight, that, leaving out a few insignificant bequests to friends and old servants she had made me her sole heir, as a practical acknowledgment, so the document ran, of the genuine good-hearted gallantry of a noble Christian gentleman on a certain well-remembered evening! The personal property, including stocks, bonds, notes, etc., amounted to nearly $250,000, and, in addition, the half interest in the deceased in the farm became mine."

Cooked.

"You must come in to dinner," he insisted, in a hearty tone of voice. "No," said the other, "really, I cannot take a refusal," returned the exalted king, firmly. "You certainly must come in to dinner." And the missionary did go in.—N. Y. Vim.

Medical Society Meets.

The Paducah Medical and Surgical society meets Wednesday night at the Lloyd infirmary with Drs. Redick and Rivers. It will be the first meeting since reorganization for the winter.

COLORED DEPARTMENT.

EVERYTHING READY FOR METHODIST CONCLAVE.

The Nineteenth Session to Be Called Here—Will Last Six Days—Bishop Salter to Preside.

The all-absorbing topic for the week and for weeks to come will be the Methodist conference which convenes in its nineteenth annual session in this city next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in Burk's Chapel, A. M. E. church, and continuing thereafter for six days. Hundreds of Methodists will be in Paducah during the conference session, and this will mean slaughter to the inhabitants of many a hennery, and the ministers, who are well acquainted with the old-time way the public has enjoyed a joke on their appetite for fowl, in the meantime will have a feast of such hospitality as only the people of this locality are capable.

Sessions of the conference will be held each forenoon, leaving the afternoon for the work of committees. There will be in the neighborhood of 100 ministers in attendance. The business transacted will be a review of the past year's work throughout the conference. The character of the preacher will be passed upon, and the individual work of each reported in open conference.

The conference will be presided over by Rt. Rev. M. B. Salter, bishop, known as one of the strongest and most beloved of bishops.

At the close of the conference announcements will be made of appointments for preachers for the coming year. No one can say positively what changes are to be made, but the preachers must take the positions appointed for them by the bishop.

The Episcopal address, by Bishop Salter, will be delivered Wednesday morning. In this address the public always has a deep interest and it will be hard to obtain a seat at the hour when it is to be delivered. Other important addresses will be those on "Education" and "Missions."

There will be receptions from time to time to relieve the mind of the care of what promises to be a busy session.

There will be hundreds of visitors from neighboring towns, and our city will be overflowing with strangers.

At the Sunday school exercises at the A. M. E. church Sunday afternoon, a report was made of the work of the conference year, which closed last Sunday. A large audience was present and the reports were gratifying. The untiring zeal of Supt. Jones to make the Sunday school what it should be has not been without reward.

Evangelist T. P. Smith, Baptist, occupied the pulpit at Washington street church morning and evening yesterday.

Revs. W. E. Glover and W. S. Baker returned Saturday from Madisonville, where they had been in attendance upon the First district association.

Rev. Samuel George Wilson, of Chicago, is in the city.

The Charitable Bible band will meet tomorrow evening at the Young Men's Bible hall on Broadway near Third. All members expected to be present.

Mrs. Robert Williams, of North Twelfth street, has been on the sick list for several days with rheumatism.

They came down at 12 o'clock to do business. The sun was at high noon and shining with all the radiance of autumn sun on a Sunday; but there was one thing which put one in mind of early morning and that was the scarcity of people on the streets at that hour—they were all at church.

Mr. Crump, of Campbell street, is on the sick list.

Miss Mahel Hienlon, of Campbell street, is on the sick list.

Efforts are being made by the members of the C. M. E. church to have a big rally on the second Sunday in October. Every member should do his and her part to help liquidate the indebtedness with which the church is burdened.

Covenant meeting was held at the First ward Baptist church last evening; sacrament was also administered.

Rev. R. Crive, of Ballard county, is in the city, the guest of Rev. W. E. Glover, of the First ward Baptist church. Rev. Crive is a life long friend of Elder Glover, and assisted in the services at his church Sunday.

At the First District Baptist Association which convened at Madisonville last week, Rev. C. T. Vanglin, of Hopkinsville, was elected moderator; Rev. W. S. Baker, of this city, first assistant moderator, and Rev. McCutcheon, of Mayfield, second assistant moderator. The meeting was harmonious throughout and much good was done.

Rev. Sam George Wilson occupied the pulpit at the Seventh street Baptist church Sunday evening.

Rev. W. E. Glover left today for Clinton, Ky., to organize an association.

City Attorney R. T. Lightfoot had a document written out this morning to the tax collector, that he could not legally collect the penalty of five percent for the whole of a person's taxes. The paper was submitted to the mayor, who expressed himself as being of the opinion that the attorney was wrong. They let a thousand dollars on their respective opinions and got the law. It showed the mayor was right, and the paper was never served on Tax Collector Lyon.

THE HUMMING BIRD.

Some Are Expert Architects—Different Styles of Nests.

Their nests are usually compactly felted structures of various forms, although those cup-shaped and turban shape prevail. The materials of which they are composed consist chiefly of plant down, interwoven and bonded together with spider webs, and decorated with an external mosaic of lichens and mosses. Usually the nest is saddled on a horizontal or slanting branch or twig; but others—those of the hermit hummers—are deftly fastened to the sides of long, pointed leaves, where they are safe from monkeys and other predaceous animals.

There are also hammock shaped nests which are ingeniously attached to the faces of rocks or cliffs by means of spider webs. Dwelling in the snowy regions of the Andes are the little gems called "hill stars," which build a structure as large as a man's head, at the top of which there is a small cup-like depression in which the eggs are deposited. So expert are some of these dainty little architects that they can securely fasten their nests to gnarled tree trunks. Others fix them upon slanting twigs so slender that one cannot see how their balance can be preserved.

In these dainty structures the eggs are laid, lying like gems in the bottom of the cups, and here the little ones are hatched. Some of them look more like bugs than birds when they first come from the shell. The method of feeding the young is mostly by regurgitation; at least such is the habit of the ruby throat, and we have no doubt that many others of the family follow the fashions of humming bird land. The process is as follows: The parent bird thrusts her long bill far down into the throat of her bandling, and then, by a series of forward plunges that are really terrible to witness, the honey food is pumped from the old bird's craw into that of the youngster. So far as is known, the babies enjoy this vigorous exercise and suffer no serious consequences from it.—N. Y. Post.

PACKING IN THE ARMY.

The Men and Their Occupation Described—A Pack-Train.

Only able-bodied, strong, muscular men are hired for packtrains. None weighing under 170 pounds is taken and each packer must be able to lift 200 pounds to the level of his chin. No uniform is required, but all the old-time packers from the west wear a costume similar to that of the cowboy, with leather chaps, broad-brimmed hats and high-heeled boots. These are armed with cavalry cut-throats, revolvers and hunting knives, and they have often done good fighting in the Indian campaigns of the west.

A pack mule carries from 250 to 275 pounds. Each train carries ammunition and rations and camp equipment. One mule can carry 100 field rations for men. Usually one-half the train carries rations and the other half tenting, ammunition and varied supplies. But no matter what the load is composed of, the pack mule is adjusted to weigh only 250 to 275 pounds. It takes an experienced packer to adjust these packs by the weight quickly. With a train of experienced mules and experienced men, the fifty pack animals can be saddled and packs adjusted and the march begun within 30 minutes. On the march the bell-horse is never ridden, but is led by one of the packers, and the mules follow the sound of the jingling bell. The bell-horse is usually hobbled, while the mules are grazing, except when an attack is expected, and the horse is held by one of the men. Bridles are unknown articles to a mule train. A "tie-up" is made by placing the bell-horse at the right of the line, and then mule No. 1 is tied to the horse's halter, and each of the other mules must become so perfectly trained that he will step into line at the place designated by his number and stand still while he is being tied to the halter of the mule to his right in the line. A train composed of expert packers and trained animals can make a "tie-up" in two minutes.—Arbel C. Cantley, in Chattanooga.

Why Teeth Decay.

The question to what extent the alkaline earth salts in drinking water affect the decay (caries) of teeth has of late been studied in several quarters. Statistics have been collected by Hise in several localities in Bavaria and by Forberg in Sweden. These have revealed the interesting fact that the extent of decaying teeth bears a definite relation to the hardness of the water; in other words, to the quantity of calcium and magnesium salts in the earth through which the water passes. The harder the water the better the teeth; the smaller the quantity of these salts, the greater the decay of the teeth.—Sudell, Ap. Zeitung.

MYSTERY OF CATFISH POINT.

The Pilot Tells of the Loss of Over 100 Lives in the Mississippi.

"Then the Mississippi has its mysteries too," the pilot went on, peering into the perspective, which was slightly intercepted by a small island that was covered by a thrifty growth of young cottonwood trees, "and there isn't an inch of it that couldn't tell its story if it only had the gift of speech. Now there's the mystery of Catfish Point, for instance, there on the right. The timber has all been cleared away and a big plantation has taken its place, but the old hut and the two graves are still there. The scene is always pointed out to travelers, and I reckon I've told the story a hundred times. I wasn't on the boat myself, but came along on the Walk on the Water two days after and learned all about the disaster, and I've kept track of it ever since. It happened in the winter time, when the river was pretty high, and you can see for yourself how wide it is—three miles from bank to bank. The Swamp Angel, that was the name of the boat, was on her way south, when she took fire in the middle of the night and burned and sank. Nobody knows just where she lays, but she is buried in the sand somewhere along here. More than 100 lives were lost. One of them was the wife of the man that they called the mystery, and who lived in the hut there. Of course he is dead now, and one of those graves is his and the other his wife's. He managed to get her ashore, but she died soon after from fright and exposure, and the blow so affected his mind that he never was himself after. Some wood choppers happened along and found them under the bank the next morning. They buried her and look him to their hut, but his reason was gone, and they never learned who he was or where he was from. That's why they called him the mystery. They fed and clothed him for 20 years, when he died, but he never spoke. He just sat all day in a cane-bottomed chair, looking at the river, like he was watching for her. The men used to say that she visited him nights, that is, her spirit did, and would sit by his bed for hours while he slept. People who were looking for lost relatives used to come here and look at him, but he was never recognized. Yes, the river has its mysteries.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Once at an important function at Marlborough house Sir Francis Knollys came up to the prince of Wales and remarked: "Some gentleman of the press with admission, your royal highness." "Oh," said the prince, "show them in. If they don't come in at the door, they'll come in at the ventilator."

The Object Attained.—Borus—"Have you read the latest issue. I mean of my story?" Naggus—"Yes, and I can't commend it. It doesn't advance the action of the story at all, so far as I can see. Borus—"What are you talking about? The story is to fill 150 pages. That installment advances

DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was never intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice almost daily, and one which is fraught with danger; moreover, the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlanston recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 20 grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, pepsines and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wuerth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create a healthy appetite, increase flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach diseases and weakness and will be found reliable in any stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50c per package. A little book describing all forms of stomach weakness and their cure mailed free by addressing the Stuart Co. of Marshall, Mich.

Every Beginner Rides That Make.

"I reckon," said Uncle Henry, after hearing his grandson read from a paper that it was the proper thing to bestow a name upon one's bicycle, "I shan't have to search for a name for that bicycle of mine."

"What are you going to call it?" inquired the visitor.

"Did you ever hear tell of circumstances over which you have to control?"

"Yes."

"Well, that's what I'm going to call that bicycle. 'Circumstances.'"

Unique Hair Restorer.

A hairdresser says that an old silk handkerchief is much better to use in stroking the hair right and warm than a brush.

Antithetic Demonstration
"Mrs. Jinks," said the new boarder, carefully pouring aleth his untasted mutton, "may I respectfully propound a conundrum to you?"

"Certainly, Mr. Harlday."

"Then why is this mutton unlike a very frivolous person?"

"I'm sure I can't guess, Mr. Harlday."

"Because, madam, it lacks levity—lightness, you know."

And the mutton fell with a thud that rattled the cups in their saucers.—Florida Times-Picayune and Citizen.
